

Submission 78 – Marshall Blight

Any information broadcast from drones via remote ID technology should only be available to the relevant authorities entrusted with enforcing the drone rules and not to the public at large, particularly the location of the RPA operator, as this would put the operator in danger of vigilante harrassment, damage to equipment and possible violence.