

Submission 13 – Doug

I dont think remote ID is a good idea to implement on hobby level model aircraft and multirotors. It will not make the airspace any safer, it will not stop people from invading other peoples privacy (drones are a stupid way to spy on people anyway), and anyone doing illegal activities with drones will continue to do illegal activities regardless. Its just going to punish everyone who is trying to do the right thing without any measurable improvement in safety or public acceptance.
