Submission 48 – Confidential

I feel that a drone food delivery system is a very bad idea. Drones are usually designed for surveillance or carrying light loads. Food is not light.

Drones are noisy and noise pollution is an increasing problem everywhere.

Privacy could be compromised and those under whiteness protection could be identified if delivery drones have cameras attached.

I have had experience of drones flying near me and have been very concerned that I might be injured if the "pilot" is not extremely skilled.

I believe that the immediate delivery of ready cooked food will contribute to our already excessive packaging waste creation and obesity problems..

Thank you for noting my concerns.
